“We have a quality vendor that is looking at the total cost of ownership as it relates to our copying and printing needs. We also have a one-stop shop which makes it easy to make one phone call to someone who understands the technology and the needs of my company.”

Customer Challenge

Exotic Automation and Supply, a motion and control distributor founded in 1963, faced challenges with their printer supply process. By the time a request for printer supplies was made, the printer was often already out of ink. During their push towards a near paperless office, an IT partner recommended Applied Innovation for an assessment of their printers and production. The assessment revealed that many printers were outdated and costly to operate. Despite their low purchase price, the total cost of ownership was high.

Applied Solutions

Applied upgraded Exotic Automation to more efficient technology, strategically placing 15 multifunction products (MFPs) and 90 printers across their 10 locations. Applied then assumed all responsibility for servicing the equipment and ensuring supplies were readily available under their Managed Print Services (MPS) program. This was particularly crucial for high-production equipment producing 40,000 to 50,000 prints per month. As a result, Exotic Automation experienced a significant improvement in operational efficiency and cost savings.
